there must be a blank space of one-quarter inch. At the top of each ticket must be printed the caption or name of the political party in a size of type not smaller than long primer capitals. Immediately below the middle of such caption or name, must be printed a circle at least one-half of an inch in diameter, within which the voter may place a cross (X), and thereby he votes * a straight ticket, and his vote must be counted for all the candidates named in the perpendicular space, or party ticket, * * * unless he votes for some candidate on some other ticket, in which case his vote shall be counted for such candidate on other ticket and not for the candidate for such office on the straight ticket voted. Immediately below the circle above named must be drawn a horizontal line, below which must be printed the names of the offices, to be printed in small capitals, and the names of the candidates therefor in no smaller than eight-point capitals.

When a president and vice-president of the United States are to be elected, the name of the office and the name * of the * * * candidate therefor shall be printed at the head of each party ticket on the official ballot, above the names of the presidential electors of such party but in the same space or box, in like type as directed for other offices and candidates. To the right of the space in which appears the names of the party candidates for president, vice-president and presidential electors, shall be placed one square, within which the voter may place his cross (X), thus voting for the candidates of his party for presidential electors, who shall be bound to vote for the party candidate for president and vice-president respectively whose name appear at the head of the party ticket. Except as herein provided for candidates for president, vice-president, and presidential electors, the name of each office and the candidate therefor must be included in one space, but separated from other offices and candidates by horizontal lines. The voter may, instead of placing a cross in the large circle, vote only for such candidates as he desires, by placing a cross on the right of their names in the small square, or by writing in the blank ticket the names of the persons he desires to vote for, and placing a cross on the right of their names in the square * . Twenty-four point squares must be placed in the blank perpendicular space on the ballot, for the name of each candidate who may be therein voted for. All the names of the several like offices and the several opposing candidates therefor must be placed on the same horizontal straight line. On the ballot, in aid of the voter, may be placed such words or explanations as "Vote for one," "Vote for three," "Yes," "No," and the like. The same margin must be left above and below the printed matter. The face of said ballot shall be in substantially the following form.
